ABOUT HARMLESS

Harmless is the centre of excellence for self harm and suicide prevention.

Every year, we support thousands of individuals who self harm, are experiencing a suicide crisis, or have been bereaved by suicide. Our approach is rooted in promoting health and recovery, reducing isolation and distress, and increasing awareness and intervention skills.

But we're also passionate about sharing what we know. We believe that everyone should feel confident talking about mental health and supporting those in distress. That's why we created our dedicated training department – The Academy at Harmless – to equip individuals to respond with confidence and compassion when it matters most.

The Academy delivers specialist training that builds the skills, confidence and understanding needed to effectively support people in crisis.

All income generated through our training is used to directly sustain and expand the free support services we offer.
